1711 Nairne 13 Aug, 1711 Sir, By My Lord's orders, I send this express to acquaint you that his Lop, having now much use for money, hopes you'll not fail to send by this bearer the feuduty of Strathbran for Cropt 1710. For My Lord cannot conceive how Grandtully or any of his friends can quarrel your paying of it now, seeing the sums was due at Merd last. And when Mr Da: Ramsay was factor for that place he made no scruple of paying two year's feuduty together within two or three days after the term of Merd at which the last of them was due. And Mr Tho: Crichton anyr of Grantully Chamberlains did immediately after the last cloath mercat send to my Lord a years Teind duty payable to his Lop out of the Lands of Abredy for ye very last cropt 1710. And My Lord bids me to tell you that he never thought that you would have been behind with any in making ready payt to his Lop, Especially at a time when his Lop's affairs do require money, and his Lop says he has all the reason in the world to believe that Grantully instead of being offended got you for making ready payt will not be pleased that his feuduties are so long unpaid. The bearer has my Lord's discharge. I am, dear sir, your most affect humble servant, W COCHRAN

1717. 4. Will these give way before thy vandal host
And yield their former labours all for lost?
No, these for Liberty, and Beauty draw
And all around the neighbouring tyrants rawe
These kock, take snuff invoke the darling flair
And then despatch thee for Endebonair.
Aim then no more, fond prince, at Georges Throne,
Wake from thy flattering Dream and guard thy own,
In every Element alike we reign,
And launch our ready Squadrons on the Main:
Our champions jocund, oer the flowing bowl
Reign in theor wooden worlds from pole to pole
Fearless of danger at their conquering way
And from invading tyrants ?scone the sea
Safer thou mightest in Lakes of Sulpher sleep
Than brave these dreadful masters of the deep.
Beneath their cannons roar, thy flags must fall
Orford presides and these are Brittons all
These, bold as lions, will the fight maintain
Or drive thee back, or sink thee in the Main
Tho boistrous, as the Winds, at Sea they roar,
They're Gentle all, as southeren gales on Shoar.
The engagement past, the tender thoughts return,
And for the fair, in Love's soft fires they burn;
In Beauties dear embraces lulled they lie
But when their country calls, her strongest foes defie
These hoist their sales, and wait thy coming ?ore
And if thou darest to touch Britannia's Shoar
Never hope to see thy native Sweden more.
How wilt thou dare these hearts of oak to meet

Should young Augustus deign to lead the fleet
 Augustus: He who striding oer the slain
 Hunted thy new Ally ore Flandria's plain
 The Boy whose Cause forsaken now by all
 Calls for a Mad-man to prevent his fall
 No Dastard Blood our Prince's Veins disgrace,
 Unlike the Prince's of a former race
 Who wifely slept or blubbered in distress,
 He'll face the Battle, and will force success
 From great Plantagenet, Augustus springs
 By his example taught to conquer kings
 Methinks I see the royall warrior stand
 Dealing amiong his Chieffs thy forfeit land
 While thou shalt fall unpityed and forlorn,
 All Europe's terrour once, but now all Europe's scorn

1719 To John Stuart off Kenichan. 5.9.19. Sir, I am induced to give you the trouble of this line upon the account of a pupill of yours in whom I pretend an interest as being the son of of one come off my family, I mean the deceast John McDonald, who lived and died in the Duke of Athol's country and service. By the character the world gives of you, I am persuaded of the good choice the sd John has made in consituting you the protector and guardian of his child and as the humanity with which I am told you treated him since his father's death meritts so I think myself obliged to thank you for it in a particular manner. If my condition were more settled I am fully resolved to take care of that boy and even in the situation I am under at present was he capable to serve me i would take him in my care but his youth and nonage make him incapable to follow my fortune as I am now stated & I believe it will be more advisable ththat he continue for some time under your protection, till it please God to give my affairs a better turn by altering the present circumstances. What little his father left him can't be better employed than upon his education, I am convinced the goodness that induced you thitherto to take his care upon you will also incline you to procure for him (so far as his own will go) the advantage of a good education which must crown his ripper years, I shall always reckon what favour you'll show him, a mark of friendship upon myself and will be ready on all occasions to requitt it by the acknowledgements of, Sir, your very humble and obliged servant CLANRANALD. I take the liberty to tell you I am very much satisfied with the Bearer for the concern he seems to have for his ?stepson

Whereas it is agreed bewteen Lieut Genl George Wade for and on account of His Majesty, and John Stewart of Canagan Esqr that he the said John Stewart shall Build a Stone Bridge Strengthen'd with a double Arch over the River of Tumble, within less than a mile west of the house of the said Canagan, which Bridge is to have an Arch of at least forty two feet between the landstools for more if the breadth of the River shall require an Arch of a larger dimension. It is likewise to be twelve foot in breadth including the Parapet walls, which Walls are to be three foot high above the pavement, and at least one foot broad, and to be Cap'd with good flag Stones. The whole to be of good materials and well wrought, And to have an access to the same extending so far on both Sides to the Land, as to render it easily passable for Wheel Carriage or Canon, AND LIKEWISE to make sufficient Buttments that shall Confine the Water to pass under the Arch, that in extraordinary Floods it may not damage or undermine the foundation. For which Bridge and all Materials, and Charges relating thereto, the said Lieut General George Wade is to Pay to the said John Steart, the Sum of two hundred pounds Sterling Viz Fifty pounds on the signing this contact, and one hundred and fifty Pounds as soon as the work is Completed, which he promises to finish before the last day of October next ensuing, and the said John Stewart does oblige himself to give sufficient Security before the last Payment is made to uphold the said Bridge at his own Expense for the space of twenty years from the date hereof, whereto we have interchangeably set our hands, this Twenty fifth day of July 1730 John Stewart. Witness John Stewart. Witness Donald McDonald

Whereas an Agreement was made bearing Date the 25th day of July 1730, between Lieut General George Wade in behalf of His Majesty and Jno Stewart of Keynachin Esqr for Building a Bridge over the River of Foss in Perthshire of one Arch of forty three foot for which he was to receive the sum of Two hundred Pounds on compleating the said Work with good and Sufficient materials

AND WHERAS the sd bridge has been built, and compleatly finished pursuant to the Contract, and the said sum of Two hundred pounds paid to the said John Stewart, which by those present he does acknowledge to have received, in full satsifaction for the said bridge

AND WHEREAS he was likewise oblig'd by the said Contract to Support the said Bridge in good repair for the Space of twenty Years from the Date of the said Contract.

NOW we John Stewart of Keynachin and David Stewart Eldest son to the said John Stewart of Keynachin Esqr do hereby bind and oblige ourselves, our Heirs, Execturs, Administrators and Assigns to Support the said Bridge in good repair, for the Space of Twenty years from the Date of the said Contract. 1732 Sir, Just now I received yours with my books intirely safe and right which will give you greater claime upon me for any of mine that you will want. I heard a great dale of the Courtships in your neighbourhood but only the Generall parts of it and none of the particulars I'll expect them when I see you - The mare you sent is in health that is I expect she will live the going to the one side will I'm affraid never leave her so that I suspect if ever she can have a fole however we can't be sure till a good tryall. I hear just now that George McKenzie Royston is stabb'd by Lord Kilmarnock but dont know from this whether to think from that he be dead or alive the same is said of some writter by another tho not named the letter is dater 20th this month from Edr You have it as I qote from McLea the Minister. I am very much, Sir, Your most humble servt, R MENZIES. 3 o'clock afternoon Friday, Castle Menzies, 28 Jany 1732

1733 To David Stewart esquire at Kynachan, Sir, The melancholy accounts of the death of so worthy so good and honest a friend could not but affect me in a very sensible manner, but this being a debt we have all to pay we ought to submit cheerfully and make a right use of this hidden summons namely to be in a readiness to pay this debt ourselves when it shall please God to call on us.

I heartily sympathise with your mother on this doleful occasion, and pray that God who is a husband to the Widow may support her under this very heavy affliction, and make her children dutiful and comfortable friends to her.

I have sent my apprentice David Carr with a cerecloth which I believe will be needful since the weather is warm and the burial not sooner than Thursday, he will give directions anent rimming the coffin, and leave perfuming oils to rub over the coffin the day of the interment a little before lifting the corpse. The sooner he is put in the coffin the better.

My wife has given orders to the baker who will have everything ready tomorrow forenoon, and she has sent several things by this bearer in case that any of them do not fit or please you they may be returned tomorrow with David Carr, so as they may be changed and others sent in their place. There is sent a pair of stockings, hat and crape, gloves, buckles and buttons.

Your linings shall be ready according to direction against Tuesday morning early against which time the tailor has engaged to have your clothes ready and Toschach has promised to have your shoes very soon.

There will be a suit of fashionable linings for your mother and sisters, ready in a day, but I'll take no more off but one suit for each of them til my wife get their particular directions, and as for their gowns it is not practicable to make them til either their measures or a gown for every one that suits or fits them best be sent for the tailor's direction, and let him know if they have black petticoats already or if there's occasion to take to Killicranky for new ones for your sisters, but your mother's must be either cloth or flannel as she pleases, but they must send the length of their petticoats and aprons.

I have sent two patches of flannel to your mother for choice for her gown, and send either the measures or a gown of your mother's and one of every one of your sisters.

I spoke to Mr Wood about the clothes and we both agree that if the burial is not sooner than Thursday it will be soon enough to fit the clothes Tuesday morning and your horses may be here to go off Tuesday night and travel all night, and they'll be home in time enough, but if you want to have the clothes sooner send word with David Carr. If possibly I can get away I'll endeavour to be with you Wednesday night but cannot positively promise. My wife and all here join in making offer of our humble service to your mother and family and I am

- Your Affetc friend and humble servant, JN: SMYTH,
 After writing, my wife thinks needless to send patches of flannel, for the finest is what my wife thinks the only one that's proper, there is three pairs of mourning gloves but if any of them do not fit, rerturn them.

1733 Madam, As there was a bond granted by your late husband, John Stewart of Kennachin to my grandfather for five hundred merkes in the year 1717 and the said 500 merks was afterwards payd to the late Gilbert Stewart merchant at Edr, and the bond being at that time in the late Patrick Baine of Findels Custody, it was some how neglected to be given to your husband, and so lay in Findels Custody til his death, that my father saw it amongst Findels papers and knowing it to be paid took it up and afterwards destroyed it, but as you have no regular voucher of the same, I hereby declare that this missive shall be a sufficient voucher of the above 500 merks and all the advents due thereon being paid. I am madam, Your Most Humble Servant, PAT MURRAY, Ochertyre 23 June 1733 To Mrs Stewart of Kennachin Elder

1736 Kinnaird, 20th Oct 1736. Dear Sir, I am interrupted in my intended visit to Sir Robert Menzies and you by Kinnaird senior having received a line from Mr Gilbert Stewart to Clear Marches with me and we have appointed Monday next, and they have chosen ?Carnons on their side, and I presumed to name you for me, so that if your time will allow, it would be very agreeable to have the pleasure of seeing you here Saturday or Sunday evening, the affair obliges me to go to Dunkeld this eveing or tomorrow morning. I offer my complements to you and Lady Kynachan, your sisters and am Yours to Command. ALEX STEWART

Dear Nanny your silence is cruel
And with it my hearts like to break
Bless then with some hope my dear Jewel
Him who adores with respect

My passion has now grown too violent
And every day stronger does prove Think then O lovely sweet tyrant there can be ??trething with love

Your charms are past my expression
I glory in wearing your chain
How wretched must be my condition
If ever you frown or diddain

Continue no more in delaying
The blessing I long to enjoy
O save your poor lover from dying
And bless him with rapture and joy

On Back

Supine in Silvia's snowy arms he lies
And all the busy care of life defies
Each happy hour is filled with fresh delight
While peace the day and pleasure crowns the night

1737 Dr Cousin, I wrote to you formerly that the process at Calmanoch is not done against you and Lady Kynachan elder was not called which was owing to the Execution of Citation not having come to Mr Waller Miller his doers hands in due time and therefore he was indulged the Liberty to call halt the execution and a complaint is now given whereof I send you the copy inclosed. As in my haste I wrote entirely upon the Supposition that you were either master of the belter now craved to be exhibit or knew where it was. Do I beg you leave now to repeat it, that if there is any such thereof at a bale in your or either of your custodies that you would deliver it up, because in the event there is no avoiding it, and you would be both put to the trouble of coming down here to make oath upon the fact. The Sheriff has accordingly assigned Thursday the nineteenth current for you and your mother in law to appear and make oath about your either having in your custodies or disposed of that belter and as Calmanoch's Doers would not consent to a Commission for your taking the oaths in the country you must be both put to the Trouble of coming down at the Day assigned in order to depone which I endeavoured to prevent to no manner of purpose. I offer my most humble regards to all the family and expecting your answer am, Dear Sir, Your most obedit and humble Sevt. ALEXANDER WOOD

South Carolina June ye 11th 1737. Dear Bro. I would have written to you long or now But was att loss what to say concerning my own situation in this country. But I'm now in a good enough way to make money. But will require both care and industry. And some time unless you could answer Twenty pounds ster for me sometime next spring. If possibly you could answer it. It would be of vast service to me and put me in the way of making an estate in a few years. I should be loath to put upon you did I think it would put you to any inconveniency but I hope it will not. Pray if I draw upon you don't return the bill unaccepted. Or it will be the ruin of my character and they'll think me a villain for offering to draw upon a man who owed me nothing as certainly they must think it if the bill be returned. Pray let me hear from you as soon as possible Direct for me at ponpon to the care of Mr John Crocket Merith. Charlestown, South Carolina. Send any letters for me to Mrs Jean Murray in Dundee and she shall send them in Mrs Crocket's packet where they shall come safe to my hands. I am Your afft Br: & Humble Sert. JOHN STEUART

1738 Mistress Mercer, Relict of Mr William Mercer at her house in Perth. Madam, Messrs Kennedy and Mercer and I agreed in opinion that each of your daughters should give you a liferent annuity of £100 Scots. Miss Babie has most cheerfully signed hers which you have enclosed with one for Miss Jeanie and another for the 2 youngest and us as curators. We make no doubt they will all frankly do you this piece of justice to which we apprehend they are tyed not only by that natural duty they are under to alimnt their mother but do so upon consideration that you brought a considerable portion with you and got no sufficient provision from your father and that now they in right of their father having succeeded to an estate they ought in justice on that very account? to make good the obligation he was under. I am fully persuaded no arguments need to be used with such dutiful children; But I cannot help ovepepping? any sentement to you of the matter. When your youngest daughters sygn their bond please send it over to us to be signed please offer my humble duty to your daughters and I am with great sincerity, Madam, your affect & GEO CHALMERS, Edb 19.6.38

1738 re ball gown said to have been worn by Jean Mercer when she met David Steuart. Ms Brown at the V & A 18.6.96. 1708-1710 Spitalfields. Would not be worn by a London woman by 1738. Could be a Huguenot French influence. A Chinese pattern, in remarkably good condition. Normally the colours have faded, particularly the yellow and gold which is almost unique in its state of preservation. The pink silk roll is 1740s and also astonishing in its preservation. The lace is very fine early nineteenth century.

1740 John Gall of Kinloch pouds and arrests the goods of DS for £113-4-6 Scots

?1740? Anent the Commission dated the fifth day of Jany last Granted to John Campbell, younger of Barcaldine, Archibald Campbell of Melfort, Collin Campbell of Innergaunan, John McNab of Inshewen, or any two of these commissioners named on the part of John Earl of Breadalbane and John Lord Glenorchy And To Alexr McDonald of Kepoch, James Robertson of Blairfety and to us David Stewart of Keynachan and John Campbell of Duneaves, two of the commissioners named on the part of James Menzies of Culdares and Angus McDonald of Kenknock by Charles Erskine of Tinwald his Majesty's advocate and Mr Robert Craigie of Glendoik Advocate arbiters with submission entered into by the said Earl and Lord on the one part and the sd James Menzies of Culdares and Angus McDonald on the other TOUCHING the servitude claimed by the sd James Menzies and Angus McDonald upon the forest of Mamlorn &c WE THE SAID David Stewart and John Campbell of Duneaves, two of the commissioners named on the part of James Menzies and Angus McDonald by virtue of the powers granted to us by the foresaid Comission, having deliberately perambulated the Sheallings of Innerchall and the graisings thereto belonging both within and without the Forest of Mamlorn and the sheallings of Coryebrevie and graisings thereon possessed by the Tenants of Gillin. AS ALSO The Sheallings Rowfinglen and Stronelerich and the other home sheallings of Loub and Tomcherin and Graisings thereto belonging and in use to be possest by the Tennants of Wester Moar without and within the Forest particularlry Beinfuaran and Stronfrein (exclusive of Beincastle) AND WE having narrowly inspected the above respective sheallings and graisings, And with respect thereto having taken the advice and judgrement of drovers and others in the neighbourhood of Good report, skill'd in graisings and the Values thereof, AND BEING

Therwith And with the Depositions of the Witnesses led and adviced before us and the Commissioners foresaid named on the part of the said Earle and Lord for our further light and information theranent well and sufficienbtly advised WE DO ESTIMATE that the forsaid Shealings of Inerchall and the graisings thereto belonging both within and without the Forrest of Mamlorn And the sheallings of Corichrevie and Graisings thereof possest by the Tennants of Gellin have maintained and may maintain the number of cattle of the different species following viz 150 coves besides stirks, 200 sheep, 135 goats, 35 horses and mares with their followers AND do value each coves grass att 2 merks and each horse or mear with followers at 4 mk and now reckon five sheep to equate to one cow, as to the goats we never heired yet iber they more land but as they are much of the same size as ye sheep we recon them much about equal as to the value of grass AND estimate that the fourth part of the graisings claimed by the Tennants of Gillin lys within the Forrest and the other Æ parts thereof lys without the same AND THAT the winter Town of Gellin has held and may hold during the Winter the haill number of Bestiall as above only that those mares and followers are left upon the above sheallings except such as are weik and low

AND further WE do estimate that the said sheallings of Row Hinglen and Stronelerich belonging to Chesthill has held and may hold the number of Bestiall of the different kinds following viz 200 Coves bessides stirks 600 sheep 80 horses and tho they be discharg'd from keeping any goats att present, yet we reckone they may hold a proportionable number of goats, and as to home sheallings thereof we found none, but what is common to all the winter towns in Glenlyon viz some huttes on their ?leathd grass in which they sett for some weeks in the beginning of summer when their cattle are too weak for folding And we do value the grass meal of each different species as above set down

AND that the said Town of Chesthill has held and may hold during the Winter the number of bestiall of the different kinds as above. Only that their mares and followers are left upon the above sheallings except such as are weak and low as aforsaid

AND We do estimate That the sheallings of Loubes and Tomierin and graissings thereto belonging in use possessed by the tennants of Wester Moar without and within the Forrest, particularly Beinfuaran and Stronfrien exclusive of Beincastle has held and may hold the number of Bestiall of the different kinds following viz 248 cows besides stirks 288 sheep 64 mares or horses. 240 goats and do value the grass meal of each different species as above mentioned

AND that two parts of the said graisings belonging to Wester Moar lys within the Forrest and the other third part thereof lys without the same and that the said town of Wester Moar has held and may hold in the Winter Season the said number of Bestiale of the different kinds as above with the same exception as to the mares

AND as to BeinCastle after Inquiry thereanent We find that the same has been for a track of very many years backward always lett to Drovers for a separate Rent

AND further we having perambulated the sheallings of ?Garvlitter and Loubheskernich and Innermeran within and without the Forrest and likewise the Sheallings of Aripolla and graisings thereto belonging within the Forrest and having narrowly inspected the same and considered what number of cattle of different kinds the town of Kenknockhay has held or may hold and with respect thereto having taken the advice and judgement of drovers and others in the neighbourhood of good report skilld in graisings and the values thereof and being therewith and with the deposition of witnesses led and aduced before us for our further light and information thereanent well and judiciously advised WE David Stewart of Kynachan and John

Campbell of Duneaves do estimate that the said sheallings of Garvlitter and Loubheskernich and Innermeran and the graisings thereto belonging pertaining to Eastermoar has held may hold and pasture the number of Bestiale of the different kinds following viz 144 cows beside stirks, 160 sheep 160 goats, 40 horses or mears with their followers And do value the grass as above 1742 Perth 27 Jan 1742. Dear Sir, You'll know that since you wrote last I had a letter from Mr Graham advising he had now got a factory from Mr Haley and was satisfied to take my bill for the price of your clock and packing which he advises is £9 -10s, this payable on the first March next and I am to send it in that manner, but as I fear I will not be in cash again that time you will really use your endeavours to assist me meantime. Let me know what you advanced and send me an order to get it from him.

Receive from the bearer your lady's web - which consists of 26 ells. I was obliged to furnish some worsted to finish it and had some difficulty to get it. I caused to call at James Lindsay's for your pumps and he said they were ready but his wife was out of town and had the key of the room where they lay with her.

Sandy Wood is now busy making out his accounts and says they'll be soon ready and sent to Edr; his father has been a little distressed and has been keeping the house for some weeks bygone Receive your almanac which cost eight pence. I am sorry your lady is distressed and wish her better health. My wife and I join in our compliments to you and her.

You have enclosed the weavers acct and a discharge of your last years web and this for which you may find a receipt to account.

We were surprised yesterday with news that in the House of Commons the money bill was delayed till 8th February an adress was voted to remove the Mr and a Committee appointed to draw up articles of impeachment against him, but it gains little ground here as it is not in the prints nor any private letter; however by a letter from Mr Drummond to the provost it's advised the patriots have a majority in the House of Commons.

I am etc Your mst obt svt, PAT DUNCAN. Janet Williamson say she delivered six fowls to your lady about your marriage and six more at her mother's death without receipt. You'll please ask her about them and if it to be fact send a receipt for them and an order to allow them which may serve me to clear with the woman, and with the friend.

1745 From ATHOLL CHRONICLES

To Duke William. Perth 3rd Oct. 1745

My Lord, - I send your Gr/ James Darling, mercht, to be kept in safe custody, and free from any Correspondence. I am inform'd that he is a subtle, dangerous fellow, and had been in a constant course of corresponding with some of HRH's enemies, which I shall acquaint yr Gr more fully when I have the honour to wait of you at Blair Castle, which, if I am noyt otherwise ordered, I hope may be Saturday or Sunday at furthest. I have sent one Alexr Duff alongs with the party that attends Darling, that he may acquaint yr Gr of all those that have either deserted or stayed at home in the Bishoprick, that they may be instantly raised; this same Duff will be very useful in putting this in execution. I have the honour to be, with the utmost esteem and sincerity, My Lord, Yr Gr/s most obt humble Servet, DS

To Col A Mercer of Aldie. Castle Menzies, 12.10.45

Dear Sir, I have the pleasure to tell you that I now believe we shall have all the men of Glenlyon, Rannoch, and this country raised in a few days, though there is an absolute necessity for a strong party of strangers to put this in execution, which is my reason for sending you this express att this unseasonable hour. Now, we are informed that Cluny is just now with his men at Dunkeld, and as he is the properest in the world, so I beg you'll, on receipt of this get an order from His Grace to send Cluny, with his whole party, (for the more the better) here tomorrow night that they may assist Shian at once to raise the men in the different places he is to be concerned with. I entreat you'll not delay this, for it will be of great consequence to us, to have Shian and his 2 or 300 good men ready to march along with us to the Prince. Let Cluny have the proper orders to be directed by Shian; - if he is not yet come, it must be delayed til he comes, for I find this must be done by strangers. I fancy you'll take notice that it will be hastening the matter to send Cluny his orders to march straight here from Blair or Dalnacardoch, if he is not yet come your length.

I have ordered a full company for Strathbrawn tomorrow evening and most of the rest are to be ordered on other parties, which I shall acquaint you of at meeting. I am etc., DS

To Robertson of Drumashine. Kynachan. 3 o'clock Saturday after noon 8th Feb, 1746

Dear Sir, This moment I have an express from the Duke telling of 4 or 500 Campbells being come to Dunkeld, and wants that I should, with all the men I can raise, meet His Gr. this night at Moulin, or thereabouts and desires me to send to Shian to meet him likewise with his men. Shian is here and not a man about him, having only ordered them to meet him somewhere about Bonrannoch tomorrow.

I have as few about me having sent them to the most tardy corners to recruit. It is now near 3 o'clock afternoon, and have neither officer nor sergeant about me, being all employed elsewhere, so cannot, though I shall do my best, raise, when it is dark, a dozen men. Meantime Fincastle, Ballechin, Kinnaird, Garth and Balnakey have their companies in the way from this to Dunkeld.

I hourly expect Bohally from Blair who went last night from this for orders. I do not know what to do; if I go without men (as I certainly must, if I should go immediately) then the recruiting of this country will be ruined. If I should not go, but set about the raising the men, I may be reflected on. What shall I do? I expect to have my mind relieved when Bohally comes, and in haste, etc

Later the same day, Duke William wrote to DS saying that the idea of marching down to Dunkeld had been abandoned, and desiring him to march his men direct to Blair, and to advertise Shian to do the same.

Major Stewart of Kynachan to Duke William. Saturday, near 8 o'clock at night, My Lord, Att three o'clock this afternoon I had the honour of a letter from Yr Grace, the answer whereof I sent to Coll Robertson. I shall with utmost expedition, raise the men of Bonrannoch, Bohespick, and all of both sides of this water.

I have sent an express this night to forward Glenlyon's son with the folks of Fortingall; I'm hopeful, once tomorrow, to have them together, so as to march Sunday.

Shian is here, and sets out very early for Rannoch, where he expects to have all his men to meet him, from whence he has a very short cut to Badenoch, if he is allowed to go that way. I shall send tomorrow for further orders, and am, with much esteem and respect, DS to Hon G. Colville. Kynachan, Sunday, 40min after 5, 9.2.46

Sir, Just now I'm favoured with yours and another from Col Sullivan ordering me with all our men hereabouts to repair to Blair tomorrow morning; I am hourly expecting Killiehassy & Garth with their men, & Glenlyon's son with his; I and all about me have been and are as throng recruiting as possible. I expect to have them assembled at Bohespick sometime tomorrow morning, which place being within 4 miles of Dalnacardoch, by going the high road, & being at least 15 miles by going about by Blair, besides being obliged to wade the waters, will I hope to induce his Gr/ to allow us to take the short road, so as to meet His Gr/ at Dalnacardoch. We hear that some of the dragoons and about 5-600 Campbells are coming this forenoon to Appin Dull. I have sent expresses three different ways to know their numbers and their motions, that they may not catch us napping here.

I am desired by Mr O'Sullivan to get the Bridge over this water cutt down, but as I have neither masons nor tools, all the men I have would not do it in a week, which pray tell, that if it is thought necessary to have it cutt, there may be masons and tools without loss of time sent from here from Blair.

I heartily wish us all a happy meeting, & am sincerely, Dear Sir, yr most humble servant. DS.

Hon G. Colville to Duke William (at Dalnacardoch)

Blairfetty, Monday half an hour after 8 at night.

My Dear Lord Duke, As it is my outmost wish and desire to contribute to our Dear Prince's Interest, I cannot help informing your Grace that I have certain intelligence of the Bridge of Kynnachan being yet entire; that I hear every well wisher to the cause, who knows the situation of the country, say the breaking of it would be of very great consequence, and that (which surprises me greatly) it might have been in ruins before now had H.R.H.'s orders been obeyed. My informer told me he saw the masons deputed by your Grace beginning to demolish it, and that they were actually stopped by a "Major Vis," so I humbly think the only remedy will be another message from the Prince, backed with a sufficient force.

I have the honour to be, with the most affte esteem and respect, my Dear Lord Duke, yr Gr/s most obedt & most faithfull humble Servt, George Colville.

I am to stay here all night, and shall have the Honour of seeing yr Gr/ tomorrow morning.

Please cause mind the Boat of Kinloch Ranach.

'Jacobite General' by Katherine Tomasson

'Lord George's account runs thus: "The Prince appeared much more against the retreat towards the evening and reasoned with several upon it. The Duke of Atholl, who had not been present in the morning, was easily persuaded to be for pushing forward. He had no fear himself and believed the justness of the cause would carry all before it. He was sent in the evening to his brother who had with him at the time Lord Elcho, Col Menzies, and the 2 majors of the other Atholl regiments who were three good officers as any in the army footnote [the officers were: Col John Menzies the Younger of Shian, who as his chief Sir Robt Menzies was a cripple led out 300 of his clan who formed the third battalion of the Atholl Brigade. James Robertson of Blairfettie, maj in Lord George's battalion; David Stewart of Kynachan, maj in Lord Nairne's battalion] Ld Geo's unpublished notes, but Lord George had not mentioned to these gentlemen the resolution to return. The Duke of Atholl in the presence of these gentlemen and Col Warren who was his ADC said that he was surprised to hear what a resolution had been proposed, and even agreed upon to return without fighting the enemy. He said a good deal upon the subject. He had no notion of danger; for if there was ever a man without fear he was certainly so. As he was honest and upright, he could not be persuaded but the English and even their army would declare for us in so just a cause. His brother told him that had he been present in the forenoon he would have heard the reasons that obliged them to come to the resolution, and he thought them unanswerable. He then recapitulated what had been said and added some others. As the 3 officers of the Atholl Brigade were in his presence he entreated the Duke would ask what they thought of the matter. Indeed these gentlemen expressed their astonishment that there were not some assurances from the London Ministry or army for other ways they could not imagine that anybody would have advised HRH to have advanced as far as they had done."

cont. p 183 'The only other casualty was at Kynachan, where a drummer's daughter was accidentally killed while peering through a window. The seizure of this important post at Tummel Bridge, garrisoned by a hundred

Argyll Militiamen, was entrusted to Charles Stewart of Bohally, formerly a gentleman soldier in the Black Watch. Like a knight-errant of old, young Stewart came to the rescue of his cousin and sweetheart, Kynachan's sister, who, with her sister-in-law and infant neices, was living very uncomfortably in a house overflowing with their hereditary enemies. The commander, Captain Campbell of Knockbuy, was absent that night at Taybridge. He afterwards received a severe reprimand for neglect of duty, especially as all his letters fell into Jacobite hands, including the order from Cumberland stating that no quarter must be given to the rebels.'

1764 Dear Miss, I received your favour with the money you sent which pays the bond I had of your mother's and all the bygone annual rents that were resting thereon. I have discharged the bond as you desired and inclose it herewith and if there's any further security needful for securing you it shall be granted on demand. I only wish you have not in any way straitened yourself by this as I was not wanting the principal sum at this time but if it serves your purposes I am satisfied and return you thanks for good payment. As to what you say of the civilities I showed you and your sister, it is what I owe the memory of your worthy parents whose memory will ever be dear to me and I must own that your own virtuous behaviour engages me not a little to do for you what is in my power. I thank God my wife's cold is quite gone and she is in perfect health as is Peggy Mercer, and we all join in kind compliments to you, your sister and Bohalies family and I am affectionately Your obt & Hum sert. 1765 Edinburgh Sat 20th July, 1765. My D Bobie, Your favours of the 17th I received this day and immediately delivered the letter I enclosed out of my own hand. Miss Thriepland had no answer, but you have a letter from the Doctor and the vomits as directed by his Receipt, and as I cannot find any opportunity you had better run an express to Perth for the rest of the Receipt if it is needful. I am very much concerned for good Mrs Stewart's distress, and I am hopeful Providence is kinder to her poor Man and Bairns than deprive them of her, as her death would be an irreparable loss to them below. Alas! what could they do without her. I expect you have ere now been with Ballechin and since you are to be at Perth, I much approve of coming here for your clothes, and that the Dr should likewise have a new shell of whatever pleases her fancy best. I hope it will be the last she will have use for in Committing Matrimony, as I sincerely pray you may live to an old age together with a fine young family about you. I only hinted Jeannie Reid's going north upon chance, and I really don't know if she would go in reality, or not, if asked. I shall be entirely of the Drs opinion as to being private or public etc whatever method she inclines I shall be happy to make one, and shall be glad to hear from her when she can conveniently write me. I am sorry to hear of your grandfather's distress but I hope he will get the better of this complaint, tho of course he must soon now make the happiest change. Good wishes to the --- yrs ROB STEWART

1766 Edinburgh, Mon 28 April, 1766. My Dear Bob, Your being from home I supposed has prevented your getting my two last letters by a Rannoch man Deor to which I shall soon expect your answer. Two posts ago I received yours of the 22nd from Perth, and I am vexed your Garth tenant has turned out so wretchedly, which must involve you in trouble and expense, but surely your information about him at his entry has been very bad; for if I remember I think you wrote me at the time that both these tenants were in good circumstances; however as it has turned otherwise there is no help. Make the most of it, and be easy as it is a good maxim you know, what cannot be cured ought to be endured with patience, and for my own part it is always my endeavour to banish every cross accident and even the thought of it immediately after it happens. You acted very improperly in allowing the creditors to carry off his stocking till the crop was in the ground as you could have legally stopped that as trustful to your Hypothick, beside you know Labouring Caule can't be poinded in seed time, so by your own inadvertancy you have the trouble of sowing the ground, and beware of this in time coming of illhace ever be your misfortune to be again so situated. My former letter will give you all what I have yet learned of Kinnaird's affairs. I wonder how your Grandfather holds it out so long.

I write Effie to Perth by this conveyance of our Ranoch Cousine Mrs McDonald who I wish never to see again, as she has plagued me extremely about her little affairs which her own stupidity has made inextricable. I am glad Jessie is doing well again, and I hope your Athole jaunt has been agreeable and of benefit to her. Is she growing yet? I hope to find her almost square by the time I have the pleasure of saluting her again. I shall rejoice to be even a Granny of her making. May all that is good preserve her is the sincere prayer of her and your affect friend. RS Compliments to all friends - I have opened my letter again to tell you Jeanie Reid is now better and I hope out of danger. If she continues to recover she is to be at Megerny next month about the end of it for the goat whey when Jessie and you will have a visit of her. Poor sweet lassie, I was in great distress about her as I thought it a pity so much good nature, fine disposition, health bloom and strength should go to the other world in the prime of youth. I had something else to tell you but have forgot it so farewell. Yes; now I recall. First, why do you never send me the Gun. Cunnynghame plagues me for it and reset he and his little wifie for these mottled peafowls at Taymouth. If any mischief has befallen your Grandfather's apply to Tait. if he can give you a pair, if not I can get a few eggs from him and have them hatched, whenever the birds are fit to be transported they will be sent for. It is on you to hire a man to bring them down. Write to me particularly as to this that I may show them the letter because they won't believe that I have wrote. - Adieu

1766 Edinburgh 25 June 1766, My dr Bob, I received yours of the 9th and 12th inst. The peafowl came safe, and Dr Jessie has a thousand thanks for them, and pray give mine to Peter for the Cock. Mrs C gave the man 3s to himself, tell me what more you gave him for expenses. Mr C was here when the man came to Fife, by which means Kattie did not get the ducks and hens he intended for her, which is owing to my thoughtlessness in not mentioning it to Mrs C when I was over, but they shall go by Dewar. My head is as grey now as it can be and I am glad Jessie is likely to make it white, poor dear soul I pity her vastly for what she suffers but like other wives I know she'll bear it patiently for the happy thoughts of being a mother. That kind providence may care for and preserve her is the sincerest wish of him who, next to you, likes and esteems her most. My love to her. Tell Effie from me she is a sad lassie. I'll be evens with her yet. My best wishes to her & Miss Rob, and tell them it is a very stupid sort of an operation for them to be hugging each other & if either of them will change for me that I am their hum. servt. I see your grandfather is at last travelled on the long journey which awaits us all. He was a good man and ripe for it, but I am pretty sure I'll not see his years. You was to write me fully which, which I now daily look for, with a copy of the Will, If you have not overtaken this don't neglect it longer, and pray be fully particular as to everything. Peter should now enter without delay in Inchgairth, and you have here enclosed a letter for him to transcribe and sign for serving him heir male of his father to entitle him to get a precept of clair from the Duke which I have already scroled & revised by Mr McKenzie and when infest will make the proper substitution to alter the former. I observe you have paid Betty Foss which is well, and that you are all now on your own bottoms. Good luck to you with all my heart. Compliments to all at Foss, ?Duneaves & ?port and am in haste, Yrs affect RS. Consult with the Provost about sending Robie to be a plaisterer, and pray why don't Fincastle & you say something about Kinaird's accounts. He is impatient & Duns me for an answer

1766 To Mr Robert Stewart of Gairth at Kynnachan. Ship Britannia Capt Archd McLarty Whitehall 24th July 1766. Dr Rob, I wrote your wife the 12th Instant acquainting her of my arrival at this place the 7th of last month and of my being in good health but I expect your letter will come to hand first as hers went by London, by one Mr Dallas, who was to deliver the letter to my uncle at Edinburgh. I send this by my good friend Capt McLarry of whose kindness my uncle will inform you as I have no time to spare just now as my companion, Rob Stewart Findynate is confined to his room with a sore that he has upon his leg, which makes me have the more to do. I wrote my Uncle and you from St Kitts by a vessel that was to sail from that the 5th of June, giving you an accounting of our long passage. I have desir'd my Uncle to buy some jackets, a pair of Black Stockings, Breeches as much Nankeen as will make 2 pair to be sent to the Country to be made by Thomas Fleeming as he's got my Measure, if not let him take yours. Tell him to give any cloathes he makes for me some allowance as am grown no less since I came to the Island, and just now much lustier than ever you seed me. You'll be surprised at my sending for cloathes so soon, but by they arrive I'll be pretty needfull as I have brought some that I cannot make use of in this climate, John Stewart has made all my shoes too little, I have sent for a pair of Charles Stewart's making, I'll be obliged to buy before they come to hand. I have also desired my Uncle to send me Arms, as they cannot be wanted here. I beg you would ask the favour of my Uncle Better to send me the small sword he has as it will be of no service to him, and of great service to me. I hope he'll grant me the favour. Innernahyle's daughter I have not seen since she came to the Island, Her husband & her promis'd Mr Stewart to be here before now but none of them came, the wife would have been much wiser to stay at home. I believe she intends going soon, tho its not fully resolv'd on yet, I beg you'll mention nothing about her going home. Some nights after I came here, there was three or four shocks of an Earthquake felt all over the Island. I promis'd to write Effie but am afraid I can't perform it. Write me where Charles Stewart Innernahyle stay[] the Baillie wou'd write me a few lines []ing what's become of Jock & how I may direct for him if my mother cou'd conveniently spare a pair or two of sheets & a pillow case or two they would be very acceptable. I long to hear if Clemmie has got the better of her sickness. I must conclude as am going to the field where I must stay till Dinner time. Remember me in the kindest manner to all friends. & I remain Dr R: Your ever affect Brother. CHA: STEWART. Goodbye boy & get the sword 1766 To Robert Stewart of Gairth Esqr at Keynachan, with 2 parcells. Dear Sir, I was favoured with yours with the agreeable accounts of your becoming a father for the continuation of which with the speedy recovery of the agreeable mother I heartily wish for. I likewise received the £2 and has according to your desire paid your cess window lights & house tax and send enclosed discharges with as such of the necessaries you wanted which with the ?? you please receive from the bearer. As to Richard Buist's Disposition if after the trouble you have taken already you would take the trouble of sending down a copy of the scroll it would be obliging. I would not desire the original scroll as possibly before the matter comes to an issue betwixt the parties you as the writer of the deeds may be examined by order of the Court of Sessions ? would be improper you should want the originall yourself in that event. If you have not time to find it soon you may put it under cover to Mr Duncan, as I may possibly leave Perth in a short time. There is no manner of News in this place since I wrote to you last. When heard you of your brother Charles? I long much to hear of his success. I conclude with complts to all the family at Keynachan and Portnellan and wishing you and your consort the enjoyments of wedlock & Bless'd with a thriving Beautifull offspring I most sincerely am Dear sir, Yours with the Greatest friendship. 1767 Edin, Sunday 13th Dec, 1767. My Dear Bob, I wrote to you the 28th ult and have since received yours of the 30th ult with a post script from my sweet little friend, which gave me real satisfaction notwithstanding the distress of the young one who I flattered myself might get the better of her illness as Infant's come through a great deal, witness Willie, but yours of the 3rd current put and end to my hopes and as she suffered so much I should think Jessy will feel the loss of her the less because looking on the innocent in such distress must have tortured the mother and all concerned. She has made the ----change and I know Jessy's good sense will not allow her to pine at this stroke of providence. She has been favorably dealt with herself for which I am sure she'll be thankful, and while Willie is spared to her, she ought not to complain and you are both young enough to have more. My only fear is her milk may be troublesome to her, but I have not heard from you. I flatter myself she does well and another year will still make her fitter for a nurse. My blessing to her and best wishes for her preservation and a long life.

I can say nothing about the Knight --?-- I have your sentiments on mine of 28th ult and a copy of the Protest and Answer by you made in case you differ in opinion from me. Your confusion has made you forget that I wanted the Mem & Opinion anent the Kyn papers annexed you have the form of letters from Jessie & Effie for carrying on that service which send me with the Mem & opinion.

Poor Kinaird was buried last Friday. His death was a desireable event to him I dare say as he was in the greatest straits for money. My love to Effie with compliments to other friends and family and believe me ever, Yrs affect. ROBT STEWART. PS I have paid Bohally's Bill to Wilson but the man not being in town could not get it indorsed, so take a receipt from Bohally for the money in the meantime

Edr Wed; 15 July 1767. My Dear Bob, I am now two letters in your debt but can't at present enter into particulars, I am so driven out of my senses further than that. I am pleased with the accounts you gave me of the contents of the letter that miscarried. It is like this person and just what I thought should have been done tho I could never venture to say so because of my connection. Probably next Sunday I may write to you fully on this subject. The inclosed letter from Charlie I got yesterday which return me after you have taken a copy of it. I have a letter from Joseph of the same date who is well and says "I am at a loss what trade to advise for Bob, a Bricklayer, Harnessmaker or Saddler are the best trades in case of him coming here, but his own choice I would let him have. John should learn to make wheels as they are much and allwise wanted here" Those are his own words Consult them with Foss and give me your opinions. Joseph will write all his friends & to Jessy. It is a comfort to them to know he is now well in which I most sincerely rejoice. This goes open and directed to our good friend the provost who will cover and continue it to you after seeing the annexed state and fate of poor Douglass who lost his cause yesterday by the president's casting vote. It is thought this hard judgement will be reversed on an appeal leaving him without father or mother Sister or brother or any relation on Earth for the evidence on which he is condemned does not give him in law other parents - pitiable situation. Mind me to my dear father, Effie, the Young Hero and all friends and Yours affect RS

1768 4.2.68. Dr Robert, I received yours with five pounds enclosed and I was heart sorry to hear Mrs Stewart being so long distressed this will serve for a receipt till we will meet I expect to get in your wheat first week. I will acquaint you how soon It's ready that you may send a horse for it. I have a Puckle lint at Kynardicky with Ann Stewart please send her ward to send it to your house that you would send down your horse that comes for the flower Please write a line to Mey Stewart your uncle daughter to send the money she owes me. My bairns and I joins with our best wishes to you Mrs Stewart and Miss Effy. I am your sincere Aunt while, Ann Stewart

1768 Mrs Stewart, Kynnachan, to be opened by none Else

My dear, dear Jessie (if I may call you that),

It is impossible for me to excuse the step I have taken so contrary to you and all the rest of my friends but I do not care for all the world so long as you and good, good Robie stay well, and once before I die are reconciled to me. What shall I say, my only dear sister? Do not grieve for me; it is not worth your while tho' I declare not all the world can give me any satisfaction if you are not well and, Jess, (since I tell you all), it was only on your account that this did not happen much sooner. 'Tho I had on my knees done you all the service in my power, I could never repay the half of what I owe you and your good husband. For God's sake take care of your self and be not cast down about me. Wherever I go I'll always hear of you, tho I will not pretend to think that you would write to me or acknowledge me in the least. Yet, though it were two hundred miles, I'd come and see you in dead of night tho you should kick me with your foot. Heaven grant you good health and long life. Your welfare, Jess, but you will not believe me, is nearer me than my own. For me, I'm like one out of the world and there is no great matter what happens to me but I hope my crime is mostly in the eyes of men and will be forgiven by my God. I dare say you will not have the patience to read this but I beg you'll give it to no other body. There is nobody to blame in this but myself. I had no confidant, neither had he which made it be so well kept up. I hope Robie will not follow the foolish custom of the world in going after me. What pleasure could he have in bringing me back to the country to affront himself and make a show of me? For I would neither eat nor drink a bit after such a thing happening in my own Country. O my blessing, my blessing be forever with you. O take care of your own health. I left my Perth accounts for Robie to pay. He'll be angry but I could not help it. Farewell my dear, dear Jess. Let nobody see this. O forgive me Jessy and God, Robie and you forgive. I care no more.

1768 Edinburgh. May 16th 1768. My dear Robie, I received yours of the 23rd April by your uncle and would have answered it before now had I either the courage to sit down or words to express my thoughts but it is impossible for you to know my thoughts unless you had an eye to look into my heart there to see the greatest distress that ever lodged in a human breast tortured with reflections of my past conduct. I may now wish with poor Bonskeid to be rid of memory and reflection. I'm sure my life is much more unhappy than his was tho I hope in God my crime is not so great. O, may I be happy in the next world for I find my time in this to be a scene of misery. O, Robie what shall I say? No words can express my situation. O, that I had dropped down dead that fatal night that I left your house and put an end to my own happiness. There is nothing in this world but crosses and misfortune and when it pleases God to keep us from any, we wilfully draw them on ourselves.

I have one favour to ask of you, not to believe or hearken to any malicious thing said of me, for your uncle has told me that there is a great deal said which I'm certain is false. There is too much truth tho there be no addition made by anybody. I hear Charles at the bridge is very busy saying a great many things of me to the country people but you may give him my compliments and tell him that ungratefulness is worse than witchcraft and I'm sure he is guilty of it when he would say anything of me. The old byword is true when a stone is once in the dieth everybody that passes puts there for on it to put it the further down. Betty Duer, her sister and brother-in-law is very basic caning you a great many lies but had you heard what they said sometime ago you would not give so much credit to the stories of me now. Tho I be at a distance I'll maybe be revenged on them yet before they leave this world. They pretend they knew of it before. If they did, why did they not tell you of it then which would be showing their regard for the f-family (as they say) much more than speaking so much of it now when it will not mend. It is not their regard for either you or me but their own private reasons that makes them pay you and Jess so many visits on this occasion. But I most like all other criminals hold my head low and my hand on my mouth. Nobody need reproach me, Robie. I have enough in my own breast. A bitter word is not at all so hard on me as a kind one that stings me to the very heart.

O Robie. Forgive blunders and nonsense for I do not know what I say. My mind is so full of confusion that I'm many time afeared my reason may leave me altogether. Farewell. If you love me, pray for my having a short life. That God may prosper you and grant you a long and happy life is the sincere prayer of the most miserable of her sex. Phem. Stewart term of payment during the not payment. And that by a post nuptial contract of marriage bearing the date of 22nd march 1768 entered into between Mungo Reid, mercht in Edin, son of Hugh Reid, tenant in Ballinarn on the one part and the said Euphemia Stewart, then his spouse on the other part. She in contemplation of the foresaid marriage, and for the other causes therein specified disponded and assigned to and in favour of all and sundry others therein mentioned any two whereof to be a quorum, the forsaid principal sum of £500 ster contained in the Bond of Provision above narrated, with the said fifth part more of liquidate penalty in case of failure and the legal Ind of the said principal sum from the term of Martinmas 1767, But in that trust for the uses ends and purposes therein after specified viz that the said trustees should make payment to the said Mungo Reid and Euphemia Stewart of the interest or annual rent of the forsaid prin sum of £500 ster at least such part thereof as shall not be employed as therein allowed of during their joint lives, and after the decease of the said Euphemia Stewart to the issue of the marriage to whom the ffee of the said principal sum is thereby declared to be long deducing from the said annual rent the expenses of executing the trust With power to us the said trustees to appoint from time to time ffeutors for uplifting and receiving all the sums of money before assigned and managing disposings and remploying the same for the ends and purposes therein before expressed and it is thereby declared that it should be lawful to and in the power of the acting trustees at any time thereafter they should think proper to pay over to the said Mungo Reid and Euphemia Stewart any part of the trust estate not exceeding the sum of £100 sterl to be employed for furnishing a house, stocking and plenishing a ffarm or otherwise for the Support of the said Mungo Reid his heirs..in case the said Euphemia Stewart his wife should predecease him without leaving issue of the said marriage And whereas it is inconvenient for us personally to execute the said trust therefore we hereby in virtue of the power above narrated nominate..the said Mungo Reid to be our ffactor to the effect underwritten.to uplift not only the interest unpaid but also the £100 and the interest on the balance..

1768 Y (dateless) Know all men by these present us John Stewart of Foss, Charles Stewart of Bohally, Robert Stewart of Gairth & Robert Stewart, writer in Edinburgh, trustees nominated by the contract of marriage aftermentioned Whereas the now deceased Mrs Jean Mercer, relict of the deceased David Stewart of Kynachan by a Bond of provision dated the 14th August 1761 Bound and obliged her and Janet Stewart her eldest daughter to pay to Euphemia Stewart her youngest daughter her heirs executors and assignees the sum of £500 sterl. money and that ahand against the first term of Whitssunday or Martinmas that should happen next and immediately after her the said Mrs Jean Mercer's decease, with a fifth part of the said prinll sum of liquidate penalty in case of ffeuillie and the due and ordinary annual rent of the said principal sum from and after the said

1769 Duntanlich 5.7.69. Sir, Some doubts having arose about the extent of the servitude pressable by me and my tennants of Duntanlich for carrying millstones for the mill of Kynachan to which my lands are thurled, in order for the future to obviate any differences in relation thereto and for ascertaining the number of men and horse I oblige me and my heirs to send out six men and six horses when a bed stone is to be carried hence and four men and four horses for a runner stone and the men and horses from my lands are to joyn with the tennants of your estate and to take a proportional share of the common and usual trouble and to be alowd the same privilege with your own tennants of the estate of Kynachan as to Drink and every other usual parquisite. I am your humble sert D.C.STEWART. to Robert Stewart of Garth.

1769 My Dear Bob, I believe you and I will wear out of acquaintance, nor do I recollect if I am in your debt for a letter as I am not in my room. Tell Charlie (who I hope mends apace) that his letters caught the Ship and that the cask of sugar and something else was sent by Effie to Perth two weeks ago accompanied by a letter to Annie & Care Effie ?Child will us thought make it out yet. The other things shall go to Perth in the first ship.

Since my last I had fresh applications from the decendants of our Highland Aunt about the legacies. In short Bob, I am tortured about this matter and liable to be dragged to a Court of Law by these people in case they got into hands whose benefit it is to give trouble. I was thinking to call every soul of them in a multypointing before the Lords, these to dispute their performances, and me desired to pay the money to those who shall be found to have the least right, which would free me from any future trouble by Scots people at least, but this would be attended with such delay & expense that I'll run the hazard of fighting the first that may attack me, which will convince the rest and divide even the £400 now remitted & trust to providence to bring more to indemnify me of my past Expence & to come. This is more than some of them ment but I chose rather to forgive them than resent where it is not worthwhile. I shall therefore soon send you the discharges to be exected and then youll come to Perth & Maxton will give you the money whom I have made sensible that it is ample payment of your £80 Dranl. You are to get your aunt Urlar and Annie's shares which is £50 alongst with Charles Roy's I think you said, say how much you can spare me for never was there such a demand here as just now nor money scarcer by the Banks calling in their Credits which has brought general distress on us all, and if times don't mend for anything I know we shall all get bankrupt. My love amongst you and yours. Ever yours RS. Lay about Jessie and the babies and mend my Honey and don't refrain for the last years Union ---- and wife ?separaterience

1769 Dear Sir, No doubt but what you are dun'd with Solicitations either one way or other Especially after this manner but where shall people go for Counsel but where they're sure to have it and that soundly a part of the reason that induced me to ask your penetrating Counsel, and being assured by the former testimony or your goodness, you'll please advise the poor bearer my only Broyr how to act which I'll esteem equally the same, as it were conferred on me. And may you and Posterity have that yourselves and oys so long as your Craig Keynnichan have stones on it may you and issue abound in riches, and honour etc etc or much rather in the words of a well know poet.

Since My Lord went from this place Captain Campbell went with him, the Sherrif and all went from hince so that I have none here that I might have their advice so that I presume to Commit him intirely to your Directions, which I hope you'll please give him, will be a great addition to the many obligations I lay under. My wife and I with humility and in the kindest manner offer our best respects to your Good Lady and self. Her kindness to me I know not how to repay it when I was there, more Especially since I left your Country. I hear of her ecommendation behind me what I cannot requite may she be requited by the Mighty One whom Jacob found when he was left alone. Sir, please excuse this freedom and Trouble and obligge..Your obliged humble servant, DOND McINTYRE. Kenmore, June 10th 1769

1770 Lassintullich, 16th May 1770. Dear Sir, I happen to be in a place where good peats are not easy to get and it's from what is most contiguous to me of the hill of Tullochcroisk that I am served every year. I am still ill served for peats to make coals and it would be doing me a piece of good service were I allowed to cast a few a little east from Kynachanluig and near the Publick road as I intend to try the Carts as this few of them. This will be of no manner of hurt to any on the estate of Kynachan as they will never come so far for peats, and if ever the marches are straightened betwixt the Estate of Kynachan and the lands of Tullochcroisk this moss has a chance of being on this side. I am your truly devoted servant, Jo STEWART [Yr of Crossmount]

1771 Edin. Oct 25th 1771, Dear Robie, I write you a few lines having the opportunity of your Uncle's frank as I'm anxious to hear how Jess is and if the things sent by the Carrier went all safe home.

I hear Bohally has still some of the money which the Baillie left to his daughter Christy, in his hand. If he has you'll be so good as desire him when he sends it to direct it here to me as a great part of Christy and Lachlane's goods here are arrested by the creditors and I am bound for them to the Choirmaster's Box for near fifty shillings sterling which must be paid in a few weeks so I hope Bohally will send the money to answer at that time. Now Robie if you won't speak to Bohally about the money he owes me this long time if he cannot send it this winter I wish you would get a Bill from him as life is bound to none of us. I hope Betty will pay her stays at this term. O Robie it's long or any of them would do as much for me. I'll say nothing about Charlie as your uncle is writing you at this time but conclude with my best wishes to you, Jess, and the dear little bodies. Phem. Stewart 1772 Castle Menzies. 30 April 1772. Sir, Yesterday the Dykers from Dowally came here and I sent them to see the march where we propose to have the Dykes first made, viz. from where the March crosses the road leading to Rannoch and the Ditch or Dyke at Leitnabroilock. They have returned this day and say they will not undertake a Dyke, tho no more than six quarters high, under Eight Shillings Sterling the Road that is six ells in length. This being their opinion you'll please send there that you mentioned to see it and let me know as soon as may be convenient what they will undertake it for. I am to acquaint the Dowally men by the later end of next week whether they are to be employed.

Lady Mary joins with me in Compliments to Mrs Stewart and you and I am, Sir, your most humble servant, R. MENZIES 1772 Castle Menzies 23 June 1772. Sir, I received your letter by your Dyker yesterday but referred answering of it till I should know how those I have employed in the same Dyke, I mean that of Dunnyollick were going on.

By the demand your man made for the Rood I do not think it necessary to agree with him: but intend to go on in the manner I am doing as quick as I can get them to do it.

There is no demands made on me for Grass for either Cow or Horse and indeed it is what I could not conveniently grant: for last week I sent for some weathers and when they arrive I must have the grass clean for them.

I am not lawyer enough to know what ought to be considered as Penal Statute but I have heard it said that cattle tresspassing upon bounds where they ought not to be, are as liable for being there in the night as in the day, and I don't remember to have heard in the Low Country where Herding is in practice - that there is any difference reckoned between day and night: if cattle be allowed to be in clean grass during the night very little will satisfy them through the day - I desired my grass keeper to shew the warrand or order I give him and you'll see I did not want to be very severe but at the same time I must necessarily have the grass keep that I may have the use of it this year.

You mention grass for your dykers cows and Horses. Rather than that the Dyke should not go on briskly I shall allow him to have one Cow and two Horses within the space of two hundred yards of the line of the Dyke on my side for four weeks from this date but I will not engage to allow it after that time without I grant him a new licence and he is to remember if either Cow or Horse comes farther tahn the 200 yds within the line of the Dyke they are to be liable to be poinded for having tresspassed and kept till paid for accordingly. I am Sir, Your most humble Servant. R MENZIES

Lady Mary joins with me in kind Compliments to Mrs Stewart and you

1772 To Mr Stewart of Garth with a box for Mrs Stewart of Kynnachan. My Dear Sir, Yours dated the 15th June does real honour to the clearness of your head and goodness of your heart what propitious moment have you? choice? sure the sun has shone with all his glory, the fields flatter'd you with their richest increase & even hodie has chanc'd to smile to mollifie & sortten you, thr every line you are so kind, so gentle, that last not the superscription undeceiv'd me, I could not imagine what, I held in my hand to have been the produce of any but a family friend, it is so flowing and animated a diction. Believe me more then you I cannot flatter, tho I say that at any time you are fit to write me your intellectualls if not sparkling are always generous and sincere and since your letters only convey the simplest truths of the children's health and other valuable persons in your family, yet even then to know they would be agreeable and received with peculiar pleasure since your own production do not please you. I must tremble for the fate of mine I would quickly give up a task to which I am unequal did I not trust to your partiability on my behalf. In the name of all the Sex I thank thee for the pleasing truths fare am I from thinking it can be a new discovery to one of your penetrations but only the pride of man would not acknowledge it, a thousand thanks to your helpmate for confirming you in so favourable ideas of us but remember I will never come to a comparison of the qualities attributed to the Lord of Creation from upon revolving them, in my own mind, there is a triflingness in ours I cannot stand, but I would fare plead some exemption, but to conclude the subject both make an inimitable figure when they act with dignity and propriety in the station allotted them, I am committed now in a private stile of life how more merit and greater capacities than many whom make a shining figure in publick, but their fate is otherwise allott'd. Contentment is the duty of mortalls that cannot judge of the wise reasons why it was so. With pleasure I accept your friendship not as a mere acquisition, but a declaration of what has been some time of forming, no hasty connection have much chance of being lasting. Long have I expect'd your unsitting this country, could not you come down this month or next, is not most of the hurry of work over come dont make me selfish the circumstances would be extraordinary indeed that makes a sister so many years younger I wont say how many, cry impediment to my professment. I give you credit for your discernment of an old maid, your distinction is exceeding just, how agreeable may people make themselves in every station of Life by good nature and affability; but your advice the good is hardly possible, how can you expect all these good qualities to arise out of chagrin & disappointment that it is necessary I frankly allow, do explane how I happen to be a favourite with the old married man, but seldom with the young ones. A laird with five hundred a year, a professor of physik with as much & a Gallent all married, flattered me by their esteem & attention & I would find difficultie to muster up as many batchelors. I hope you will succeed for Willie has hardly any thoughts of going away soon. I thank you for your kind invitation but you are not aware what a walker I am now, no partie would you get without my attendance, shooting, hunting, fishing etc etc & then my pondrous figure, no animal yet made could with ease transport me half a mile, your Unkle when he ey'd me with amazement and exclaimd at the sight of so much heif and horse compacted in one person, seriously mammas sittinuation hinders all thoughts of seeing you. Tell Lady Foss I feel for hershe stay, maker is importaant for the servant seems to be a family peice My careless scralls will at least show I deserve the compliment of writing with ease but I am afraid you will think that no merit when the composition has none. I received your short note first but has given the other the preference in the answer. I hope Mrs Stewart's things will please, have sent a muslin cap the shape I would like for my own wearing not indeed quite the present mode which cannot be worn without exceeding light hair in the middle which I thought would not be agreeable to her, have likewise sent a black stoll which can be worn at all times and I hope will be of more use than a necklace. I know with pain you now see yourself involved in epistolary debts but come I wont distress you, interest will be all I require until convenient. Preserve me from a man that cannot condescend to trifle agreeably & sometimes relax his deiven cares by amusement. I am led into this reflection by a man much too sensible for me. May such a one never be my lot for life, but I must manage my little stack of thought for fear you discover the vacancy too soon. How can you imagine any commission a trouble to me. I hope you will live to repent that narrow idea. Did I ever write you of Donald's promotion he has by Mrs Stewart's means got into Sir William Maxwell of Catherwood's, he has ambition that is laudable but is selfish to the last degree. What do you think of Mr Fordyce at London, The bank is breaking for upwards of three hundred thousand pounds. the ??llian of the house in which he is concerned is of universal detriment to this country. The notes of few banks are at this moment current, the linen trade is at a stand, capital merchants in Edinburgh has failed many Banker totter & even the traders in Perth will suffer, but in a little time the storm will blow over and all notes be again good. The said Fordyce is lately married to a fine young lady if even Lady Ann Lindsay whom her mother absolutely sold for the prospect and none the very foundation of ??happiness is luckie if a favourite author had not informed me, experience would before none convinced me that the strongest friendships are the least noisy of which my regard for Mrs Stewart is a strong instance.

Yours without parade. MARGARET MERCER July 8, 1772

MEMORIAL for His Grace the Duke of Atholl 1728

The Family of Atholl having for severall ages past been in use of setting ye sheal of Cornasavy common pasturage and fewel to Drumchary and his tennants. They in recompense of this brought their whole grindable stuff to the Duke's mill at Keltnie and besides the multures paid thereat they also payd the family six unclipt weathers yearly.

But the late Duke having excambed the Lands of the west end of Fortingall & Easter Drummachary with Glenlyon for Kilmorick (1710), Glenlyon foreseeing that the usual method of disponing lands with their grassings & sheallings would give him no title but to what sheallings had been in Mans memory possessed by the lands dispond him got in a particular manner the shealling or sheallings of Corinasavy dispond him, And his Grace not forseeing the design neglected to make any particular reservation of the shealling of Corrinsavy & others usually set to Drummachary. Never imagining there was any intention of depriving him of the Benefits arising to His Grace by furnishing Drummachary grass and fewells especially there being no value given for the grass and fewell.

No sooner is Glenlyon come by his disposition but he deprives Drummachary of the said priviledge until he became tributary to himself, By which his Grace was not only deprived of the six weathers yearly but even diminished fourty merks Scots yearly of the Rent of the Miln of Keltnie that his Grace had got payd him by his multurer for Drummachary multure.

The Duke not willing to succumb to this Catch inclined to remeed it by law But Glenlyon finding his plea not altogether so fairly founded apply'd for a friendly accomodation and brought the Earl of Breadalbane and others to Blair Atholl to treat with the Duke and his friends. The result of which meeting was; that the Duke & Glenlyon entered into a mutual writ whereby the Duke renounced his right to Corrinasavy, And Glenlyon obliged himself to furnish his Grace a loaning of 24 foot broad from Drummachary's march eastward in the most convenient place to the Duke's property and to build the dyke six quarters high on the one side and the Duke to build the other. It is obvious that this loaning was designed for priviledging his Grace to carry Drummachary through Glenlyon's new purchase to his Grace's other Grazings and moss in Fortingall. In order to achieve the wonted benefit arising to his Grace by supplying Drumacharry's want as above. And it can be no less obvious to any impartial judge that the sentence (most convenient carried) was designed for Drummachary allenerly.

And accordingly the Duke having appointed Fincastle, Innerslanie and others to view the ground condescend on and mark the convenientest way for Drummachary to the Duke's property, and they having so done Glenlyon not yet willing to part with this honest purchase studied to protract the building of the dyke, contending by himself and friends viz Campbells of Kinloch and Duneaves and several others that the word convenient inferred his conveneincy and not the Duke's or Drummacharys. And would assign no other ground for the loaning but the face of a prodigious craig, evidently impracticable to be travelled by cattle and tho accessable yet near five times the length of that condescended on by the Dukes Doers. And on that account rendered very expensive nay almost impossible to be fenced. And altho Glenlyon failzied in performing of his part of this mutual writ yet he by virtue thereof possesses the shealings of Corrinasaury, And ryses the benefit of Drummachary's whole tack duty which he would not have done if he had obtempered his part of the said writ.

But the Dukes loss did not fully ly in this for Glenlyon having lately refused the tennants of Achlao belonging to the Barony of Comrie the wonted priviledge of a loaning thro Easter Drummachary within his head dykes by which they woud been thoroughly deprived of fewell and access to their sheallings last year had not Drummachary allowed them one through his Interest. And altho Drummachary should allow the people of Achloa & Laggan a loaning thro his bounds (The latter having no easy access to the hill, but by Drummachary) Yet Glenlyon can easily deprive them of their access to their fewell and sheallings Into the Dukes property tho not by interruption as he desires he can do it by inclosing the piece of ground interjected betwixt the Dukes and Drummacharys propertys through which the loaning was appointed to have been. And allowing them (if any at all) no other way but the face of the rock through which he designed the loaning

And in either even heel in the end ruine both the towns or render its possessors miserable By all which it would seem evident that it is in his Graces interest to see to Glenlyons obtempering part of the @ mentiond mutual Writ Which would in future Ages secure a Loaning for the Barony of Comrie And an additional rent of five pounds sterling or thereby To the Barony og Garth

Memorandy for Drumacharie

The Ground incroached on by Glenylon is a little spott of Ground lying be north the church yard & be most the ministers yard And ?be east a small rivulet running straight downward from a well called furran na tarve about a Gun Shot north from the church yard At least ?be east the well & rivulet always ?reputed the march stones And all ?be east these stones have been 30 years ago or thereby fenced and posest by Drumacharies Cottars in the place as a kaill yard and within which 3 stones and bounds formerly laboured Drumacharies house & kaill yard lately interrupted by Glenlyon under form of instrument stands the house and kaill yard was then posest by Donald McIntyre and from the well of furran na tarve or at least from the three stones straight up the brae face and northward until you come to the northern end of a Glaib or low Ground called Glaib na Bairten about a gun shot from the 3 stones or well and near a wall called furran Roue or road wall And then north east by the same Glaib or Low Ground until ye come to the march dyke betwixt the Kirkton and Ardyseth which is about a gun shot from the northern part of the said Glaib This dyke clears the marches betwixt Drumacharie and Glenlyon straight upward until these marches in the hill which tho some what contrairied is not to be medled with at this tyme.

Memorandi for Drumacharie

That Drumacharie having got a Tack from Glenlyon of the shealling and Grazing of Craigvade and the freedom of common pasturage with the tennants of Belnald Kirkton and Easter Drumachary of the whole hil belonging to Glenlyon above the head dykes of the said places And ?be east the burn of Aldour And to the Duke of Atholl's march on the East And without any bounding northward or up the hill But as far as the other Town Cattell And his usually go?? from the falds

Glenlyon 6 or 7 yeats ago or thereby nott only in closed a field or piece of ground called Ffanduie near to a quarter of a mile above the head dyke which was neither laboured nor inclosed these 35 years past and never laboured since mans memory but once and that but 3 or 4 yeats att most And then not used. As the Common Gange of their cattell Butt also pastoures a Considerable number of Cows sheep and horse through the Whole Common Gange the most part of the year And has turned the whole goods of Bellnald & Kirkton out of their ordinary gang upon Drumachary And ruins Drumacharies whole tennats Goods By this inclsure and pastouring his cattell he brings from Chestill Besides which he and his tennats keeps upon the inclsure

The inclosure sows about 24 bolls victuall besides a deal of hay and grass And insists yearly in inclosing as much ground as both the goods of the tennants of the inclosure And his other in brought goods ?tan Taith or Good

Where by hes already damnified the Common Gange egrogously and if allowed to insist will verry soon render it useless for Drumacharrey and his tennants

An Abbrevat of Drummachary's Claim against Glenlyon 1728

1. Drummachary craves the Arbitrator to perambulate Cognosce Determine and Settle his marches betwixt Glenlyon and him, beginning the Kirktooun of Fortingall

2. That they consider the Rivulet or stripe and ordain the same to run in its wonted and immemorial Channel and decern Glenlyon to pay the Damnges sustained by the pssessors of Drummacharys tenement and by himself for demolishing his stacks and puling the stripe out of its ordinar Channels

3. That Glenlyon be decerned to demolish ?handover and that Drummacharys damnadge by what is done be cognosced liquidat and decerned

4. That Glenlyon be decernd now and in all time coming during Drummacharys lifetime to tolerate his goods to pasture in Glen Mullin etc. In the plain and precise terms of his tack. And that Drummacharys damnadge for straving his cattelle this year be liquidat, cognosced and determined and the Tomnacroich tennats be discharged to pasture in the common gange

5. That Glenlyon be discerned to permit Drummachary and his Tennents to cast peats and other fewells in the terms of his tack above any part of the head dykes he pleases and to pay Drummacharys damnadges and loss for destroying his peats in time past

6 That Glenlyon be found and declared to have inevitably forfeit the eighty pounds penalty in his tack to Drummachary

7. That he be decerned to pay Drummachary £100 sterling for his expence and damnadges in carrying on his process before the Lords

Summond of molestation Glenlyon against Drumchary 1727

...That William Stewart of Drumchary by himself his tennants servants and others in his name without any right or title has encroached upon the market place within the village of Fortingall by building his fewell thereon thereafter building house where the fewell stood and then advancing his fewell to another part of these lands or market place and by enlarging a yard belonging to him in the town and taking in a part of the market place within the yard whereby people resorting to the market do take up the pursuers ground to make room for themselves on the fair day and by discouraging people from coming to the market through hampering and encroaching upon the market place whereas a benfit and advantage would arise to the pursuers said village from such a fair by straightening the King's Highway AS ALSO by the tennents or possessors of the defendants new built houses pasturing their sheep and cattle upon the next adjacent lands belonging to the pursuers tennents and farmers... Stop doing it, demolish the houses & pay £50stg damages

Articles betwixt His Grace James Duke of Atholl and John Campbell of Glenlyon

Inprimus that the touns of Laggan and Auchlaoi in the Barrony of Comrie shall in all time coming have the srvitute and priviledge of leading home their peats allenary yearly from the mosses of the hills of east end of Ffortingall through the lands of Easter Drumcharry by the road and loaing used & wont and Glenlyone hereby renounces and discharges all instruments of interruption made and taken by him at any time against the tenants of the said towns for leading their peats through the said loaning and road. 2. Whereas by former articles of the date the first June 1712 betwixt the deceased John Duke of Atholl and Glenlyone His Grace was to have a loan and passage for his own use or to any other he should give it unto of twenty four feet breadth from the lands of Wester Drumcharry through Glenlyones lands of Easter Drumcharry to his Graces property on the east side thereof above Glenlyones head dykes in and by the most convenient place as Fincastle and Kinloch should mark out and whereas Fincastle and Kinloch did not agree about the place through which the said loan should run therefore to prevent any further disputes about the same the said parties now mutually agree and determine that the said loan and passage shall run from the said lands of Wester Drumcharry up and through the same loan that the tenants of Easter Drumcharry have always used from their own town of Easter Drumcharry to the neather part of their sheiling of Riedonachie And also whereas by the said first articles a dyke to be built on each side of the said loan on the mutual charge of both parties and they now finding that the building of the said dyke would be expensive to them they resolve to keep good neighbored so as there be no occasion for the said dykes But in case either of them shall failie therein and that disputes arise betwixt them on that account In that case either pleaser can demand of and oblige the other pleaser to concurr in building a dyke on each side of the said loan on the mutuall charge of both parties

3dly to prevent any differences in time coming about the marches betwixt His Graces lands of East end of Fortingall and Glenlyons lands of Wester Drumcharry they the said parties hereby mutually declare that the said meiths and marches shall in all time comeing run as follows viz Beginning on the north at the middle of the craig called Carnbarn in the head of the hill above Riedonachie from that down a litle to a gray fixd stone in the face of the said hill and from that in to a strype or burn of Riedonachie and from that down all the way as the burn runs to a place where a cairn is erected on each side of the said burn and and from thence down the burn a litle further to the high way where two other Cairns are erected one on each side of the said highway and from thence in a straight line down to a fixd stone or rock in the slope of the hill above the stone called the march stone and from thence straight down to the stone called the march stone and from the said march stone down and east a litle space to the foundatione of ane old dyke that runs down on the east side of ane outfield belonging to Easter Drumcharry and down as the said old dyke runs and from thence down and into the burn that is called the march burn and from thence down as the said burn runs till it enters into the Water of Lyon and for further clearance of the said march the said parties hereby refer and recommend to John Menzies sone to Capt James Menzies of Comrie and to Duncan Campbell brother german to John Campbell of Duneaves to to place and fix march stones in convenient distances all along the said march as above described. 1756, 17th Aug. Letter from Pat Stewart of Perth anent funeral account for Wm of Garth. Says letter to Garth's brother has been sent on Debts owed by dead Garth to various tenants. Elspet Stewart in Balnarn owed a guinea lent in Mar 1756 and another guinea he recd from her to be given to the Provost to pay for malt and another 10s for liquor. Neill Stewart in Balnarn heard Garth acknowledge the debt. Isobel McDougall relict of Jas Stewart late in Overblairish also depones this debt, although she can't be sure of the amount as the liquor was furnished at different times. John Robertson in Balcroich witnessed Donald Deor in Milntown go into Garth's house having a £5 note in his hand and he then said he was to pay Garth in payment of his share of the cropt of Nether Blairish bought by Donald Deor & in about half an hour he came out of the house and said he had paid Garth the £5 and Garth had two shillings to pay back. Thos Stewart in Garth acknowledged that Donald McCruim in Feb 1756 gave him £2-1 upon his brother Garth's account in part payment of the cropt of Nether Blairish. Wm of Drumcharry deponed that some time in the spring of '56 to the best of his memory before Garth went to Glenco that Wm happened to be in McCruim's house with Garth and Robt S in Over Blairish at which time he remembers Garth said to McCruim's wife that she would be brought in for cakes and ale for Donald Stewart's share of the cropt but whether this was joak (sic) or earnest he does not know. That McCruim's wife said that she would burn Donald Stewart's wife's house about her ears before she would pay any part of Donald Stewart's share of the cropt, as she had satisfied Garth for her own proportion of the same to which Garth made no return but ordered the wife out of doors. Elspeth S, wife of John S late in Over Blairish depones at the latter end of spring '55 Garth & decd Donald S, mercht at Burn of Keltney were in her husband's house and Garth bought a stack of bear of the cropt of Nether Blairish at £3-10. Chas S of Inchgarth depones that after the death of Beatrix Stewart relict of Donald McFarlane, smith in Balcroich he inspected her papers and remembers a Bill accepted by Garth to her for 40 merks and knows not what became of it.

1790 Letter from John Campbell to Robt S, Auchmore. Let's stop having disagreements re peat & recommend good neighbourliness twixt the Captaine & you though your tenants are v impertinent.

1791 Jas Rattray v Robt S & Robt S v Ann Stewart. 'Wm Stewart of Drumcharry's bond of provision due by Pat Stewart his only son to Mary Moncrieff his widow offset by alimenting says Robt S. Rattray spouse of Mary Stewart exec to Mary Moncrieff says one third of Wm of Drumcharry's furnishings and moveable estate due to her. Robt S says Ann Stewart daughter of Chas of Inchagrth due to pay the third but she says prove it.

1793 Stirling v Robt S. Printed. rather lamentable account of Robt S stripping the land of all crops etc before leasing Schiehallion to the sheep tenant of Kynachan [mislaid by JBL]

1801 Robt S to Robbie uncle. ...my late wife died the 22nd October 1785. By this opportunity I have troubled you with a copy of a letter I received from Commissary Fordyce of Aberdeen. He seems to be the only active man amongst us. At present I derive no sort of emolument from that office being obliged to allow the whole fees to fall to the depute. If a salary could be obtained, it would probably admit of a division and in that way I might have something. In the present situation, I can never have anything but the trouble of revisory processes when they are not satisfied with the decision of the depute. The question is how far it may be proper for me to risk any more money in joining with the other commissaries in the proposed application for a fixed salary. I am not clear about it myself, and therefore as usual must have recourse to your advice.

The season continues favourable for this poor country. We were a little alarmed on Sunday last by a pretty heavy fall of snow which covered the ground completely, but a fresh wind from the west soon removed it; for two days we have had rain and now the ground quite black again. The fodder in general will be much plentyer than we had reason to expect. I hope the people will be able to keep their cattle alive. All my straw is done, so now only the hay to trust to. It will be scrimp. Much depends on the spring. My plough has wrought two yokings on your farm, but obliged to stop owing to the wetness of the ground, however no opportunity will be lost. Your dykers cannot proceed with the walls, but I exoect they will be able to finish it in due time.

The effect of our resolutions as to smugglery begin to appear. Bear is now offering to ?, always kept up in hopes of a relaxation of the resolutions. If the early check had not been given, I do believe that bear would at this moment be selling at £4, if not £5 a boll. Last week Lord Braedalbane sent a person along with the gauger to seize some malt preparing for distillation which they found in the hill. The owners will pay the piper. We are all become revenue officers. I hope it will have a happy effect, and that bear meal will be had in the country to keep the people alive, but prices must be high. Some purchases of bear and meal were made lately with a view to retailing, the purchasers wanted to be off, but the sellers sent it to their door. Bear was selling at Killin on Tuesday sennight at £2-2 a boll, the lowest price I have heard of. William and the lasses unite with me in offering you our best wishes, and I remain. Robt S Drummachary 29th Jan 1801.

Chas of Inchgairth had a son James dsp and a daut Ann. Chas died in 1765. His bro was Wm of Drum. Wm d1766 had an only son Pat d1776 and a daughter Jane who married Wm of Garth and had Robt S. Other daughters Mary and Anne.

Boston May 9th, 1781 Sir, The receipt of your obliging letter gave me great pleasure for I really began to despair of the happiness of hearing from you again: i must at the same time apologise for being so long ere I acknowledge the receipt of it, but Miss Edwards the friend that writes for me was out of Town, & since her return has been in ill health which was the occasion of my long silence - I was concerned to hear that your family was troubled with the Hooping cough, for it is a violent & tedious disorder but hope as the spring advances they will soon get the better of it - I am sorry to find that my husband has imposed upon you to the prejudice of my friends characters for he gave you a false account. My father by his will left his small possessions to my Mother and myself to which my grandfather left us an addition - my mother by her second marriage did me no injury with respect to what was my own, & I have reason to speak of Mr Edwards my father in law with great respect, for he always treated me with great kindness, till by my own obstinacy in my choice of a husband I forfeited his friendship & even then he did not desert me - I am obliged to you for your kind advicce to bear up under my misfortunes with patience and resignation. It may probably be thought that as I am a young woman, & left without any incumbrance of a family, that I may make my way thro life without any great difficulty: but indeed Nature has dealt out her favours to me with a very sparing hand for there are many things that other people can do that I am incapable of doing, setting aside the unhappy disorder that I before mentioned myself subject to which alone would render me unfit to undertake any thing of consequence I am this time in but indifferent health and I have the misfortune to see my poor brother return to Boston without any probability of his ever being better. To these troubles I may add another affair that gives me concern, which is that the friend that writes for me is going to leave Boston the --of her fortune obliges her to pursue a means of making an addition to her income. You are so kind as to say you would gladly aford me every comfort in your power, it would be unreasonably of me to wish for more or expect that my friends should distress themselves by relieving me, whose situation is such that any trifle would be acceptable. I am the same relation to the ladies at Bohallie as I am to your lady, and if they would be so kind as to contribute a trifle it would be gratefully accepted by me. I beg you will give any respectful comps to Mrs Stewart and the above mentioned ladies likewise to Mrs Reid when you have an opportunity. With my best wishes for your family's recovery. I am sir your very much obliged most obedient ELIZ HALL

PS If you say that you received my letter of rather an old date: I don't understand the reason why they are as long on their passage, but it was about 9 weeks from the date of your letters when I received them. Please direct for me at Mr Patchetts, Dolphin Lane, Boston Lincs

N. Stewart to Robt S of Garth. July 11th 1782. Dear Sir, Yours of the 29th Ult I had on my arrival here. We were before we left Dublin all down with the Influenza which prevaented our marching so soon as I intended, we have now all got well of it, but it still rages in some parts of the Kingdom. I hear you have it in Scotland, I was sorry to hear Mrs McGhie was very bad of it, it generally attacked us here with a Cold, sore bones and a Violent Headach - I only hope your part of the Country has escpaed it. I am sorry Charles dont make greater progress in his recovery, I was hopefull the warm season would have brought him strength fast, I wrote him before our march from Dublin. I was happy to hear of Mrs grant's marriage. Neill Fergusson is a very good lad and I dare say will make her very happy, as for the Red Coats they must submit to see these things matrimony and the army not agreeing well together the manner of life being rather unsettled. The recruiting of the 2000 men for the British navy granted by the Irish parliament goes on very fast, the Volunteers are very active in it. there are besides some Regiments of regulars to go from this Kingdom. They say we are to be of the number, and that we shall go in a few eeks, there are six transports arrived here yesterday, they say we go either to Gibralter or the West Indies but I believe it is mostly conjecture. We must go wherever we are ordered and imagine it the best. I can say nothig of this place as yet, we have made no acquaintances but to night I hear we are to have a dinner and dance. I am really very sorry for my friends in Holland they will be vastly at a loss how to behave. They are very ill used on your side of the water. I have not heard from Sandy Stewart for a good time past. We have of late had a good many changes in the Regt. They have all joined us, Capt Prickett's name is rather a droll one, he is a very good knid of man, seems vastly fond of his money, he is from Yorkshire. It gives me vast pleasure to hear Archie Balneavis is Capt, pray is there no word of his brother getting marries. Mr Robertson is arrived some tim[tear] some young man had been got from the Country to purchase the other [tear] This is a vastly good place for Sea Fish we have it every day in great perfection. The report of the day is that we go to Plymouth, you may direct for me here on chance, Begs my most respectfull Compts to Mrs Stewart and Charles & believe me, dear sir, yours N STEWART Waterford July 11th 1782 I spoke to Col Gordon about Sergt Dewar from Crieff. Their has been a complaint. All your acquaintances here are well/
